SYNOPSIS

34 short poems accompanied by the most elaborate drawings of all sorts of creepy nightmares we might have.

The frame story is a house at night, out of the darkness emerge two scary figures who enter into the house, pick up a sleeping boy and carry him - bed and all out of the house. Then the different dreams start. Have a look here:

"I have caught myself a real nuisance of man He is blind but has one eye that works on his left hand"

"Behind my granny's summer house, there is a secret path There lies an extra-terrestrial who could really do with a bath"

"Under my seat on the bus to school lies a bearded man who says he died in a pool"

"Oh, I really hope that I am spinning a tale I believe there is a living thing underneath my nail".

REVIEWS

"It was my recent good fortune to be introduced to the work of John Kenn Mortensen and my even greater fortune to be privileged to publish this work by turns, playful, funny, wicked, stunningly imaginative, and, of course, masterfully rendered, like a combination of Edward Gorey and Bernie Wrightson, but every bit his own man." - Gary Groth (Publisher of Fantagraphics)
